COMMUNICATED.
The sudden death of Mrs. Lovell, yesterday, at the family residence in West Chester, will be sensibly and widely regretted in the city and in that county. As the head of a large and respectable family, her duties were always strictly and faithfully performed, but never interfered with a proper enjoyment of her domestic and social duties. Her death was a severe affliction to her family, and a great loss to the community. Her husband, who was a highly respected citizen, and a member of the Board of Directors of the West Chester and Philadelphia Railroad, is now a widower, and has a large family of children. DIED.
Obituary.—On Saturday, the Rev. F. G. Schaeffer, D. D., late Pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. James, President of the Synod of that connexion in this part of the State, Professor of the German Language and Literature in Columbia College, &c. expired, and his funeral took place yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, from his late residence, No. 177 Grand street. Dr. Schaeffer was well known in this city, and beloved for the urbanity of his manners, for his unpretending acquirements, and unaffected piety. He was a member of several Scientific and Literary Associations in this metropolis. For some time past he suffered from a pulmonary complaint, which terminated his labors of love and usefulness on earth, on the evening of Saturday last. He lay for some hours without being able to speak; but at 5 o'clock, P. M. he suddenly exclaimed, in a strong voice, which at first startled those around him, "Victory! Victory!" and repeated passages of Scripture expressing the Christian's confidence; he then folded his arms and said no more. He died in the 39th year of his age.

CITY BULLETIN.

An Awful and Shocking Calamity.— Falling of Bannisters at Ward School No. 26—Upwards of Fifty Little Children Instantly Killed—Thirty or Forty terribly injured.

The particulars of the terrible calamity of yesterday, as gathered by our reporters, are given below. The scene of woe and anguish which followed the accident, no tongue or pen can describe. It was not one, but a multitude of mothers mourning for their children, "and would not be comforted, because they were not." We called upon a friend in Charles street last evening, who informed us that two children in the block in which he lived, and one in the block opposite, were killed. It was about 9 o'clock, P. M., when we left his house, and up to that time forty-two deaths had been reported at the nearest Station house. We fear that the total number will not be less than fifty. A member of the press, who was on the spot immediately after the accident, informs us that the children who were precipitated from the staircase, lay in a pile eight feet high on the lower floor when the first assistance arrived. There were eighteen hundred children in the school when the accident occurred. There was only one staircase in the building, we understand, and it was only about three and a half feet wide.

It appears one of the teachers in Ward School No. 26, in Greenwich avenue, by the name of Miss Harrison, was suddenly seized on the school attack of paralysis, and fell upon the floor in the school room. Her fall caused a panic among the scholars, who rushed into the corridors and upon the stairs. The teacher shrieks announcing the supposed calamity to the scholars of the other classes, who also made a desperate rush into the corridor; but they came pressing with tremendous force, and trampled the younger ones under their feet, whilst the renewed cry of "fire," warned them to make still greater exertions. They pressed against the balustrade of the staircase at last made this give way, and as it fell upon the flagged floor of the playground, the bodies of the poor children followed its rapid descent. The scene was a terrific one. Children after children rushed down the horrible pit, a depth of eight feet, crushing beneath their weight those who had preceded them. Many, in their anxiety to escape the more horrible death of burning, leaped voluntarily down the chasm, mingling their life-blood with that of their comrades. More than seventy children thus rushed into the jaws of death; and although a few of them escaped with less severe wounds, about fifty were instantly killed, and many other dangerously wounded.

The calamity would have been still greater, but for the presence of mind of Mr. Francis McNally, the principal of the school, who, on hearing the cry, placed himself against the door of the topmost story, declaring that none of the scholars there should go out. In this manner his class escaped destruction.

The scenes, even up to a late hour last night were horrible to behold: fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers, were besieging the 9th Ward Station House, weeping bitterly and crying out "where is my child?" she is missing, and nothing can be heard of her or him! We here annex a list of the names of the killed and wounded as accurately as could be obtained in the excitement by our Reporter.

A large number of injured children were immediately carried home by their parents, and the extent of the calamity can hardly be ascertained. The excitement in and about the place, and at the Ward Station House was such as we have never witnessed before. The disastrous news had gone like wild fire through the city, and distracted parents rushed to the spot, embracing the lifeless and maimed forms of their darling children, vainly seeking to resuscitate them. The Police, with the Chief, the Recorder, Mayor, and many other distinguished gentlemen, were in immediate attendance, and did all in their power to alleviate the distress. An inquest will be held this morning, at the Ninth Ward Station House.

her lady readily granted, providing her uncle consented. As he made no objection, the girl joyfully hurried from the apartment to get herself in travelling order, promising to join her mistress in the court-yard. The baron drew the lady Meta's arm within his own, and Adolf walking by her side, they departed. On reaching the end of the corridor, they met Frederick hurrying towards them.
 'Get the horses ready for instant departure,' said the baron, hastily, 'we would quit the castle on the instant. If the steeds are jaded let fresh ones be taken from the stables.'
 'I am right glad to hear, my lord, that you are about to leave this place,' returned Frederick: 'I was seeking you to advise it. The inhabitants of this castle are wondrously altered; begging your pardon, baron, a more complete gang of ruffians I never crossed in a noble's hall, save where feuds and marauding were the fashion. It is with difficulty I have kept our people from fighting with them; taunting may be borne when 'tis a jest from those who have some claim to jest with one, but to be taunted by such knaves as these is past a honest soldier's patience. A good steel with a fair field and a staunch heart, might scatter a dozen of them at a time; they are brawling and shouting, and talking about base-born citizens and the honor of nobles.— Pretty rascals they, truly, to talk of honor in any shape!'
 'The evil, as far as we are concerned will be remedied by our absence,' observed the baron, a gloom hanging on his brow.
 'Where are my people?'
 'I have mustered them all in the corridor below, my lord,' replied Frederick.
 'to keep them out of harm's way.'
 'Do you go first to see to the steeds, and let the retainers follow me out of the castle,' said the baron.
 'Your lordship shall be obeyed,' returned Frederick; 'the steeds will be well enough—they are too good to be easily jaded. They shall await your coming in the court-yard.'
 He turned away as he spoke, and was soon lost to sight. The baron gave a significant look at his nephew, and said, in a low voice, intended to escape the ear of Meta—
 'It is well we are armed.'
 Adolf bent his head assentingly, and laid his hand upon the hilt of his sword.
 The sign was enough; the baron said no more but advanced quickly forward.
 When he reached the hall, which he did without observing his people, who it afterwards appeared were stationed in a passage on the opposite side, he perceived the seneschal, near the door which led into the court-yard, busily arranging as well as harranguing a troop of fellows, the same whom Quintin had seen when paying a visit to the Count Idenberg. The moment the Baron and his companions appeared, the seneschal, who had armed himself with a breast-plate and a steel morion, quitted the troops and hastened to intercept them. He had a drawn sword in his hand, and when he saw the Lady Meta, he stood and made an exclamation of very unequivocal surprise.
 'Your trooper told me, my Lord Baron,' he said, in a sarcastic tone, which had the effect of raising the baron's blood mightily, 'that you and this knight were about to depart; but he did not tell me also the fair Lady Meta was to accompany you. I turned out my people to do you honor, but much I fear I shall need their service to induce you to leave the lady behind you.'
 'Ill-mannered slave!' cried the Baron, wrathfully, 'it is scarce seemly in me to be moved at thy insolence, but, by the Mass! it is hard to bear with patience the buzzing of a wasp. Stand out of my path, worm! or I'll crush thee with my heel.'
 'I fear, my lord, you would find the worm turn again,' exclaimed the man, whose pale face displayed the vindictive excitement under which he labored.
 'It is the only time the worm does turn, and then its sting is impotent,' said Adolf, sternly; and added, 'hast thou forgotten, knave, that I flung thee from my chamber as I would a cub I had slain?'
 'No,' said the seneschal, showing his teeth as a snarling dog ere he bites, 'no, sir knight, I have not forgotten it, nor shall I easily, until I am requited.'
 'Dear uncle, be calm, I entreat you,' said Meta, earnestly; and then, turning with an air of dignity to the seneschal, she said, 'Johann, it is my pleasure to go forth with my uncle; retire with your fellows, or you will learn what penalty my father enacts for scenes like this.'
 'By your leave, lady, I can neither retire, nor must thou go forth, though it be thy pleasure,' returned the seneschal, with a tone of insolence; 'I know my duty better. It is thy father's orders, that, on no consideration or inducement, you were to be permitted to quit the castle; and were to be seen by no one but your own people or the Grand Duke Estevan. My Lord Baron has thought fit to disable me from keeping one part of my orders; I will take care he does not interfere with the other.'
 'Slave!' roared the baron, passionately, and would have sprang upon him, but Adolf held him back, and Meta added her entreaties to his to be calm.
 'Mine be the task to chastise the knave,' said Adolf; and, succeeding in quieting the baron, he advanced to the seneschal, who retreated several steps as he approached, crying out hastily—'Stand back, sir knight, or the consequence be upon your own head; if you attempt to lay a finger upon me, my people shall fall upon you and your life will be forfeit.'
 'Dog! your threat hath no place in my ear,' observed Adolf, still advancing, I drawing his sword as he did so.— and from before the path, and give my le and the Lady Meta a free passage, o'll cleave thee to the ground. Give but, thou insolent knave! give back, an I bid thee.'

Religion is a surpassable treasure. It is Heaven's greatest noble gift to man. It enables him with cheerfulness to bear the various afflictions and deprivations to which he is exposed while in this vale of tears. It raises his affections from the petty things of earth to heaven and things divine. Many who do not know the subtleties of religion, think it renders us possessors of glory and happiness. But how are they mistaken! It is the great fountain of happiness — the only source of real enjoyment. But it is, alas! to be feared, that many professors do not possess this pearl of priceless worth. They have taken up with some false delusion which indeed affords no consolation but induces rather perplexity and grief. But this is unnecessary when we gain in a rule by which we may know what we are to do. It is enjoined on those who profess its name to aid the weak and feeble to comfort the afflicted and to keep them unspotted from the world. It is in a word, a commission which mandates we need not fear being discerned.

THE FUNERAL SOLEMNITIES—It afforded a melancholy satisfaction to see the promptness and unanimity with which the request to join in the solemnities due to the illustrious dead was yesterday complied with. It being the day appointed for the interment of the remains of the late President at Washington, the flags of all the shipping in port and on all the public places in the city were displayed, many of them trimmed with black crepe, at half mast from morning till evening. At twelve o'clock, the hour at which the funeral procession was to move from the Presidential mansion, all the bells of the city commenced tolling, minute guns were fired from the Battery, the streets were closed, all countenances wore the aspect of sincere sorrow, and the city presented a scene of impressive solemnity such as we have seldom witnessed. Many citizens appeared in the streets with crepe upon the arm, all places of public amusement were closed, and it was in truth a day of mourning. It showed how deeply and how sincerely all Americans can feel, and how cordially they can unite upon all matters concerning the national weal, notwithstanding the bitterness which they at times display in their party contests.

The same feeling and the same spirit exhibits itself in all parts of the country, and accompanies the melancholy intelligence wherever it flies.—Our exchange papers, without distinction of party come to us clothed in mourning, and announce becoming preparations in all places for showing the respect due to the memory of the deceased.

When the news reached Albany, the flags from the committee rooms of both political parties were displayed at half mast, as well as from the Capitol and other public places; the Governor sent a message to both houses of the Legislature, and they immediately adjourned, after appointing committees to make arrangements suitable to the occasion. The Court of Errors, and Court of Chancery, which were in session, also adjourned.

The Governor also caused to be issued the following general order to the Militia of the State.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
HEAD-QUARTERS, ALBANY,
April 6, 1841.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Information having been received of the death of WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON, President of the United States, and Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy thereof, the following arrangements will be observed by the Militia of this State, as a manifestation of respect to the memory of that illustrious General and Magistrate.

The usual badge of mourning, consisting of crepe on the left arm and on the sword hilt will be worn by the Militia until after the next annual inspection and review of their respective corps.

The Commandants of all Artillery Regiments and Battalions, and of all companies of Artillery attached to Regiments or Brigades of Infantry throughout the State, will cause guns to be fired, within their respective commands, at every half hour from sunrise until sunset; and the Commandants of the several Brigades and Regiments of the Militia will direct the National Standard, dressed in mourning, to be displayed from their respective Head-Quarters on the day next after the receipt of these orders.

The Commissary General and keepers of the Military Store, will furnish the necessary implements and ammunition for these funeral honors.

Officers receiving copies of these orders will promulgate the same without delay throughout the bounds of their respective commands, and will superintend its prompt execution.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,
RUFUS KING, Adjutant-General.

GENERAL ORDER.

It has become my painful duty to announce to the Officers of the Navy and Marine Corps, attached to this station, under my command, the death of William Henry Harrison, late President of the United States, which occurred on the morning of the 4th inst. at Washington, and to direct, in compliance with directions from the Department, their manifestation of respect for the exalted character and eminent public services of the deceased, and their sense of the loss sustained by our common country, by this afflicting event, by wearing the usual badge of mourning for six months.

And I further direct that funeral honors be paid him on board each of the vessels in commission at this station, by firing twenty-six minute guns, commencing at 12 o'clock, M., to-morrow, and by wearing their flags at half mast for one week.

(Signed) J. RENSHAW, Com dt.
NAVY YARD, New York,
April 7th, 1841.

The following is the official announcement of the funeral of the late President, which took place yesterday, proceeding from the White House, to the Congressional Burying Ground, Washington.

DEATH WARRANT OF CHRIST.

Chance has just put into our hands the most interesting and interesting judicial document to all Christians, that ever has been recorded in human annals; that is the identical death-warrant of our Lord Jesus Christ. We transcribe the document as it has been handed to us:

Sentence rendered by Pontius Pilate, acting Governor of Lower Galilee, stating that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death on the cross.

In the year seventeen of the empire Tiberius Caesar, and the 25th day of March, the city of the holy Jerusalem, Anna and Caiophas being priests sacrificators of the people of God, Pontius Pilate, Governor of Lower Galilee, sitting on the presidential chair of the Prætorium, condemns Jesus of Nazareth to die on the cross between two thieves—the great and notorious evidence of the people, saying—

1. Jesus is a seducer.
2. He is seditious.
3. He is an enemy of the law.
4. He calls himself falsely the Son of God.
5. He calls himself falsely, the King of Israel.
6. He entered into the temple, followed by a multitude bearing palm-branches in their hands.

Order the first centurion, Quilrus Cornelius, to lead him to the place of execution.

Forbid to any person whomsoever, either poor or rich, to oppose the death of Jesus.

The witnesses who signed the condemnation of Jesus are, viz.:—1. Daniel Robani, a Pharisee. 2. Joannas Rorabable: 3. Raphdel Robani: 4. Capet, a citizen.

Jesus shall go out of the city of Jerusalem by the gate of Struconus.

The above sentence is engraved on a copper plate; on one side are written these words:—'A similar plate is sent to each tribe.' It was found in an antique vase of white marble, while excavating in the ancient city of Anquilla in the kingdom of Naples, in the year 1820, and was discovered by the Commissaries of Arts attached to the French armies. At the expedition of Naples, it was found enclosed in a box of ebony, in the sacristy of the Chartem. The vase in the chapel of Caserta.—The French translation was made by the members of the Commission of Arts. The original is in the Hebrew language. The Chartem requested earnestly that the plate should not be taken away from them. The request was granted, as a reward for the sacrifice they had made for the army. M. Denon, one of the savans, caused a plate to be made of the same model, on which he had engraved the above sentence. At the sale of his collection of antiquities, &c., it was bought by Lord Howard for 2,890 francs.

THE LAST WORDS OF GENERAL HARRISON.—"Sir, I wish you to understand the true principles of the Government—I wish them carried out—I ask nothing more."

Whereas, the Rev. F. C. Schaeffer, Pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation, now and recently worshipping in the New Jerusalem Chapel in Pearl-street, New-York, has announced, that an unknown individual, through a confidential agent, had purchased the Church and three lots of ground in Orange-street, lately owned by the Irish Presbyterian Congregation of this city, in order to bestow the same as a free gift, on the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation, now under the pastoral care of the Rev. This Congregation having complied with a request, accompanying the said announcement, namely, to be incorporated; and the said congregation having elected church officers, and attended to the formalities prescribed by law in such cases; and having, on the 21st day of February, in the year of our Lord 1827, obtained from the proper authorities, a certificate of having been legally incorporated, under the name and title of "The Corporation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. James", in the city of New-York; and.

Whereas, Leonard Bleecker, Esq. and the Rev. Frederick Christian Schaeffer, have, on the 27th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1827, received a legal deed and unincumbered conveyance of the aforementioned property in Orange-street, to have and to hold the same in trust to and for the sole and only proper use, benefit and behoof of "the Corporation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Saint James", in the city of New-York, under the pastoral care of the Rev. Resolved, That the following Epistle, together with a copy of these proceedings, be transmitted in the name of the pastor, officers and members of this Church, to Leonard Bleecker, Esq. with the request, that he, as the confidential agent, forward the same to the unknown benefactor of St. James' Church.

EPISTLE.

To the unknown and munificent individual who has presented the Church and three lots of ground in Orange street, between Hester and Grand-streets, New York, lately owned by the Irish Presbyterian Congregation, to the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation, under the pastoral care of the Rev. F. C. Schaeffer, now and recently worshipping in the New Jerusalem Chapel in Pearl street, New-York.

GENEROUS FRIEND:

We, the Pastor, Elders, Deacons, Trustees and Congregation of St. James' Church, greet you in the name of the Lord.

Our hearts are filled with gratitude to that All-wise and Gracious Being, who turneth darkness into light, and who commandeth us to put our trust in Him.

He who hath sent his Son as the Saviour of sinners, and who grants his Spirit that we may be renewed after the image of God, daily manifests his Power, Wisdom, and Goodness. By these tokens of his love he confirms the promises of his Word, and lays his impressive commands upon us to profess his precious gospel unwaveringly, to live and die unto the Lord that loved the Church and gave himself for it.

We have often seen and tasted that the tabernacles of God are amiable. We were desirous of continuing unitedly to worship him in spirit and in truth; and with our children to go up to Zion, and have communion with the Eternal in the place and inheritance of our fathers. But the Great Head of the Church permitted sore trials to come upon us: He rebuked and chastened us in love.

When our feet could no longer stand in the holy place where the blessed gospel of our meritorious Saviour had often edified us in our most holy faith—when we were shut out from our beloved sanctuary and from the fair temple of our own creating, we felt that our hearts are not at the disposal of mortals—that our souls are not in the hands of the children of men to do as they list.— We felt, that it would be a still sorer affliction to be separated from each other; or, in any wise, to have those christian ties severed which had for many years of prosperity and adversity united us as one household, and as members of the same evangelical congregation.

Our souls longed, yea even fainted for the courts of the Lord: Our heart and our flesh cried out for the living God. We thought of the sparrow that findeth a house, and of the swallow that fieth to the altars of Jehovah—and we were greatly strengthened.

Meanwhile, pastor and people endeavored, thro' grace, to be ready for filial obedience to the Lord's will, and to labor in the place of his appointing, whether near at hand or far distant.

While preparing for whatever trials the hand of our heavenly Father might send us as a christian flock, a beam of light suddenly broke through the darkness, and those unto whom we were strangers, took us in. Such christian deeds the Lord and Saviour of all will recognise: he delighteth therein. Here then, deprived as we were of our own birth-right and of the fruits of our labor, we were not destitute. Providential circumstances had prolonged the sojourn of our spiritual instructor, and the request to abide with us for a season, was not unheeded. The future, however, was still dark. We prayed for more light; and the Lord showed us the light of his countenance. Unexpectedly the marvellous message was brought to us, when we were assembled in the Divine name—you have a church and a home, as a free gift, bestowed upon you and your children: give beauty of holiness.

We were bowed down under the weight of such glad tidings, we rejoiced together in so signal an interposition of a mysterious Providence. With one accord we gave God the glory, and our tears, which were the overflowing of grateful hearts, bore testimony to the sincerity of our fervent prayer: Lord, help us to prepare our hearts in righteousness and peace. Then, in the decline of the day, rose the hallowed strains of the church, and every member of the devout family sung the solemn vow:

"My God, my Life, thy various praise Shall fill the remnant of my days; Thy grace employ my thankful tongue, Till death improve the grateful song.

The wings of every hour shall bear Some thankful tribute to thine ear; Add every setting sun shall see New works of duty done for thee."

To you, beloved friend, whose great act stands unparalleled in the history of our Church in America; to you whose heart is so noble, whose soul is so generous: to you, whom God hath appointed as his worthy instrument to spread the purest joy, and to work out incalculable good to the souls of men; to you we offer our most affectionate and hearty thanks for such a great and regard. While in this grateful acknowledgment we accept your pious donation, even the offering of uncommon liberality, we pray most fervently that you who confer this blessing, may be unspeakably blessed. Have you a family, relatives, and kindred dear; may the riches of Divine peace descend upon them, and abide with them and theirs forevermore. For, from the first day we thank our God upon every remembrance of you, always in our prayer for you, making request with joy, that your felicity may be perfect in Christ Jesus.

And not those only who are gladdened by your bounty, as its immediate recipients, invoke the choicest favors of Heaven upon you, but very many of our friends and brethren among various christian denominations in this city, rejoice and pray with us; and thousands of our fellow-believers in distant places participate in our happiness, and thank God and supplicate before his throne on your behalf.

We cannot refrain from declaring, that the value of your munificent gift is enhanced by many circumstances under which it was bestowed, and especially by your kindly considerations toward the Shepherd as well as toward the flock to whom he ministers.

Alas! we know not the name of our benefactor. We have not the privilege to approach him in person and to say while pressing his generous hand, "God bless thee our brother; more thanks than we can express, we owe and seek." Nevertheless, we have the consolation, that God who SEETH IN SECRET KNOWETH YOU, AND THAT HE IS YOUR REWARDER.

Though your name is concealed, your work is seen, your light shineth, and your example is felt. It seemeth then, that the left hand shall not know what the right hand doeth. In one great privilege we rejoice—we have you in our heart.

We, and our children, their children and succeeding generations shall ever bless the Noble Founder, the Munificent Benefactor, the Unknown Friend of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of St. James in the city of New York.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you, and fit us for the happy meeting and certain recognition in Heaven. Amen.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Congregation be presented to Leonard Bleecker, Esq. for his kind and prompt services as the agent of our Munificent Benefactor.

Resolved, That the Resolutions, with the Preamble, and the Epistle of this church, be signed by the Rev. F. C. Schaeffer in behalf of the Congregation, and published in the newspapers.

F. C. SCHAEFFER.

The Understanding—We ought not to despise a man any more for the misfortunes of his mind than those of his body, when they are such as he cannot help; nay, rather, we should pity him the more, who is deficient in intellect, than he who has lost a leg or an arm, the loss of the latter may be supplied by artificial means, the want of the former never can be supplied by any means at all.
